

Contents

Preface

Chapter 1	Introduction : Cultural Dimensions of Development in Thailand	2
1.	The Buddhist Approach	5
2.	The Community Culture Approach	7
3.	The Community Rights Approach	13
4.	Conclusion	17
Chapter 2	Land Clearing and Settlement in Forest Areas	20
1.	Characteristics of the Villages Studied	29
2.	History of Settlements and Land Clearings	35
3.	Changes in Attitude of Villagers Toward Forests	52
4.	Potential of Communities in the Conservation of Forests	59
5.	Forest Conservation Policy from Villagers' Point of View	71
Chapter 3	Conflicts over the Control of Land and Labor in Commercial Agriculture	82
1.	Problems of Tenancy, Landlessness, and Subsistence in Chiang Mai Province	83
2.	Organized Resistance by Poor Farmers: 1974-1976	86
3.	An Emergent Class of Capitalist Farmers	88
4.	Triple-Cropping	94
5.	Changing Forms of Tenancy	96
6.	The Modification of Sharecropping Arrangements	102
7.	Agricultural Wage Labor	104
8.	Conclusion	112

Chapter 4	Titling and Local Control of Land Tenure	116
1.	Characteristics of Land Holding and the Agricultural Production System	117
2.	Conflicts in Land Inheritance	122
3.	Security and Conflicts in Land Holdings	136
4.	Conclusion	151
Chapter 5	Conflicting Patterns of Land Tenure Among Ethnic Groups in the Highlands	156
1.	The Agroecosystem of Mae Khan Basin	158
2.	Ethnic Conceptions of Land Tenure: Commonality and Proprietary Rights	159
3.	State Interventions	163
4.	Market Interventions	165
5.	Conflicting Patterns of Land Tenure	172
6.	Conclusion	179
Chapter 6	Local Control and Management of Community Forest	182
1.	Community Forestry as an Integral Part of a Peasant Subsistence Farming System	184
2.	The Cultural Perception of Community Protected Forest	188
3.	Problems of Community Forestry and Conflict Resolution	197
4.	Conclusion	199
Chapter 7	The Local Construction of Rights in Community Forestry	202
1.	Community Forestry as a Dynamic Local Custom	204
2.	From Local Values to Collective Rights	209
3.	Social Struggles for Legal Recognition of Community Rights	213
4.	Conclusion	219
Bibliography		221