

ABSTRACT

SETTING UP A LANGUAGE SCHOOL IN PAKISTAN

BAKHTAWAR KHASKHALI

Payap University, Chiang Mai, October, 2007

Project supervisor: Aj Phillip Keay

This Project is about the setting up a language school in the South of Asian in Pakistan. The main aim is to set up a school which can provide English teaching in a communicative way by using the Communicative Language Teaching (CLT) approach. This project gives guidelines for setting up and running the school. It helps to guide all the related factors which are involved and take part in language schools. This study considers academic and business issues of a school. The research in Chiang Mai schools will help to be a guide and provide understanding about language schools at different levels.