

TABLE OF CONTENTS

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS	v
ABSTRACT.....	vii
LIST OF FIGURES.....	xiv
LIST OF TABLES	xv
LIST OF ABBREVIATIONS AND SYMBOLS.....	xvi
CHAPTER 1	1
INTRODUCTION.....	1
1.1 The people and their land.....	1
1.2 Classification of the language.....	2
1.3 Previous linguistic work on Jirel.....	5
1.4 Explanation of transcription.....	7
1.5 The data and its limitations	10
1.6 Brief introduction to the thesis texts	11
1.7 Organization of thesis	13
CHAPTER 2	15
ESTABLISHING DISCOURSE BOUNDARIES	15
2.1 Change in time	16
2.2 Change in location	20
2.3 Change in participant	22
2.4 Phonological markers.....	27
2.5 Other considerations	28
2.6 Episodes	30
2.7 Summary	47
CHAPTER 3	49
SURFACE STRUCTURE	49

3.1 Title.....	49
3.2 Aperture	51
3.3 Stage.....	53
3.4 Prepeak episodes.....	56
3.5 Peak episode(s)	59
3.5.1 Rhetorical underlining	61
3.5.2 Concentration of participants.....	63
3.5.3 Heightened vividness.....	66
3.5.3.1 Verb density	68
3.5.4 Change of pace.....	85
3.5.5 Change of vantage point and/or orientation.....	87
3.6 Postpeak episode(s).....	89
3.7 Closure	91
3.8 Finis.....	94
3.9 Summary.....	94
CHAPTER 4	97
PLOT STRUCTURE	97
4.1 The plot structure of Jirel folk narratives.....	98
4.1.1 Exposition	99
4.1.2 Inciting moment.....	100
4.1.3 Developing conflict.....	101
4.1.4 Climax.....	103
4.1.5 Denouement.....	105
4.1.6 Conclusion.....	106
4.2 Overall plot structure of four Jirel texts.....	107
(1) Plot structure of “KALE”	107
(2) Plot structure of “CAT”.....	109

(3) Plot structure of “JACKAL”	110
(4) Plot structure of “DEER”	112
4.3 Summary	114
CHAPTER 5	115
SALIENCE ANALYSIS OF STORYLINE.....	115
5.1 Primary storyline Band 1	119
5.2 Secondary storyline Band 2.....	123
5.3 Background activities/events Band 3	127
5.4 Setting Band 4.....	129
5.5 Irrealis Band 5.....	131
5.6 Evaluation Band 6.....	133
5.7 Cohesion Band 7	135
5.8 Promotion and demotion.....	137
5.9 Summary	139
CHAPTER 6	142
CONCLUSION	142
6.1 Summary	142
6.2 Suggestions for further research.....	147
APPENDIX 1	149
KALE.....	150
APPENDIX 2.....	164
STORY OF MICE AND (A) CAT.....	165
APPENDIX 3	178
STORY OF (AN) OLD JACKAL.....	179
APPENDIX 4.....	204
STORY OF A JACKAL, A DEER AND A CROW	205
BIBLIOGRAPHY	229

LIST OF FIGURES

Figure 1. Distribution of Jirel population (Reproduced from Jirel (1992:18)).....	2
Figure 2. Jirel in relationship to some other Tibeto-Burman languages.....	4
Figure 3. Jirel among other Tibeto-Burman languages (With modification from Rai (1995:29)).....	5
Figure 4. Proposed surface features of Jirel narrative.....	30
Figure 5. “KALE” verb density, counting primary storyline verbs only.....	71
Figure 6. “KALE” verb density, counting both primary and secondary storyline verbs.....	73
Figure 7. “CAT” Verb density, counting primary storyline verbs only.....	74
Figure 8. “CAT” verb density, counting both primary and secondary storyline verbs.....	76
Figure 9. “JACKAL” verb density, counting primary storyline verbs only.....	77
Figure 10. “JACKAL” verb density, counting both primary and secondary storyline verbs.....	80
Figure 11. “DEER” verb density, counting primary storyline verbs only.....	81
Figure 12. “DEER” verb density, counting both primary and secondary storyline verbs.....	84

LIST OF TABLES

Table 1. Phonemic chart of consonants	7
Table 2. Phonemic chart of vowels	8
Table 3. Four contrastive syllable patterns in Jirel	9
Table 4. Four contrastive tones in Jirel	10
Table 5. Boundary features of “KALE”	36
Table 6. Boundary features of “CAT”	38
Table 7. Boundary features of “JACKAL”	41
Table 8. Boundary features of “DEER”	45
Table 9. The distribution of storyline verbs per sentence for the whole texts and at peaks.....	70
Table 10. Ratio of the usage of theme ⁴ ‘then’ and adverbial clauses at prepeak and peak episodes	87
Table 11. Linguistic features prominent in surface structure components of Jirel folk narratives	96
Table 12. Plot structures of the texts analyzed.....	114
Table 13. Longacre’s etic bands of salience in narrative	116
Table 14. Tentative salience scheme for Jirel folk narratives.....	119