ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

The author wishes to thank his supervising professor Dr. Fraser Bennett, and thesis committee members Ajarn Noel Mann and Ajarn Ken Manson for their invaluable guidance, encouragement, help and advice to complete this thesis.

The author also would like to express his gratitude to all his teachers and professors at the Linguistics Department of Payap University for their academic inspiration, particularly to Ajarn Noel Mann for imparting knowledge of and enthusiasm for the field of historical linguistics during his course work and writing this thesis.

The author wishes to thank the individuals and families of SIL International in the Mainland South East Asia Group for their support, care and concern in times of need, and encouragement throughout the course of his studies.

The author wants to mention his gratitude to Rev. Smith Ngulh Za Thawng, the General Secretary of Myanmar Council of Churches, who first introduced him to Mark Wannemacher and the Linguistics Department of Payap University, which provided the opportunity for this course of studies.

The author wants to thank the Leipi Baptist Church of Kalaymyo for granting him study leave, his parents Pa Neng Za Kam and Nu Ciin Niang, his wife Khin San May, his daughters Niang Sian Lun and Ngun Kip Tial, and his son Kam Sian Tuang, for their moral support and constant prayer.

Last, but not least, the author wishes to thank and acknowledge the wisdom, the strength and the unseen guidance of Almighty God throughout his study time.
