ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS

This research could not be completed without these people's help so I would like to thank all of them who assisted me in doing this research. My appreciation is first expressed to Assistant Professor Dr. Wanida Penkingarn, my thesis supervisor, for her outstanding guidance, advice, and encouragement throughout this study. My thanks also go to Associate Professor Dr. Varunee Boon-Long and Dr. Frances Woods, members of my committee, for their invaluable guidance.

Moreover, I would like to thank all of my friends in the TEFL program. A special thanks for Ajaan Sasinee Kuenkaew from Maejo University who devoted herself in evaluating the lesson plans for each period and Miss Yean Dore, Miss Nantarat Suttana and Miss Ornchuda Srinum who devoted themselves in evaluating the lesson plans throughout learning and teaching. I also would like to thank all hotel personnel learners who participated in learning very well.

Lastly, I wish to express my deepest gratitude and utmost respect to my parents who have supported me financially and morally throughout this study. They have played a major role in my success.
