An Unexpected Visitor 1

One afternoon, Robbie had some company over at his house. His friend Alexandra, an exchange student from Greece, was visiting him. Alexandra was listening to music on Robbie's new walkman. She told Robbie that it was absolutely wonderful. Robbie said it was a gift. His family bought it for him for his birthday.

Alexandra told him he was lucky to have such a nice and thoughtful family. But as she spoke, her eyes looked a little sad. Robbie wondered what was wrong. He asked Alexandra what the matter was. At first she didn't want to say. She told him everything was alright. But he knew something was bothering her so he asked her again. Finally she confessed that she missed her parents. She had received a letter from them that morning. It made her cry and feel homesick.

Robbie wanted to cheer her up so he suggested they go out for cheeseburgers and french fries. Alexandra's face brightened but said she would only go out if Robbie promised not to complain about his math teacher or homework. She just wanted to have fun. She didn't want to talk about such serious stuff. Robbie said that would be fine. He just wanted to have fun, too.

Robbie went to get the lights and mentioned that he needed to always turn them off when he left the house. He said his father would be very angry if he came home and found the lights on. He moved across the living room to turn them off. But just as they were about to leave the house, they heard something outside. Robbie thought it sounded like a dog barking. Alexandra said it sounded like it was just right outside.

Robbie opened the door. A dog was standing right there. "A Springer spaniel," Robbie said. "Come on in! Make yourself at home," he said to the dog. "Oh, you poor little thing," Alexandra said. "Come here." The dog walked in and Alexandra and Robbie bent down to pet it and have a better look.

Alexandra looked at the identification tag on the dog's collar. "Look here," she said. "It says her name is Gemma and she belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Levinson." She found a phone number on the tag and suggested Robbie call it. Robbie tried the number but the operator said it was no longer in service. Alexandra felt bad for the dog. She looked into its big, sad eyes and said, "Don't worry, poor baby. We'll find your family."

An Unexpected Visitor 2

A little while later, Robbie and Alexandra were sitting in Robbie's kitchen wondering what to do about the dog. They gave it something to eat and Robbie said, "Don't worry, Alexandra. We'll find the owner." "How?" she asked.

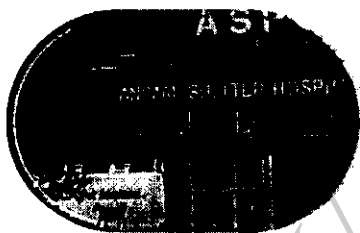

"Let me think," Robbie said. He thought for a moment and then remembered a group called the ASPCA-or the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. He told Alexandra that he found a cat caught in the branches of a tree one day. His father called the ASPCA and they came right away and got the cat out of the tree.

Alexandra suggested they call the ASPCA right away. Robbie went and got a phone book and looked up the number. He found the ASPCA Animal Shelter number. He reached for the phone and dialed the number. "Hello, ASPCA," a woman answered. Robbie told her his name and that he had a lost dog he'd like to bring in. He asked how late they were open and the woman responded that they were open until 9 p.m. It was 6.30; Robbie suggested they leave right away.

As they were leaving, Alexandra asked what they should do if they didn't find the owners. Robbie said he would adopt the dog. "Just look at her eyes. She's so cute. She's hard to resist." Alexandra felt love and affection for the dog too, and wished she could adopt her, but she was going home to Greece at the end of the semester.

Robbie and Alexandra took Gemma over to the animal shelter. When they entered, Robbie had to fill out a form stating his name, address, and telephone number. "Where did you find the dog?" he was asked. He explained to Linda, the shelter worker, that the dog just showed up on his porch. But he also explained that the phone number on the dog tag was no longer in service. And there was no address listed either. "Do you think you can find the owners?" Robbie asked. Linda told him it would be difficult without a phone number or address but she would try. Robbie asked if he could adopt Gemma if they didn't find the owners. "Well," Linda said. "If no one comes to claim Gemma in the next forty-eight hours, you can apply for adoption."

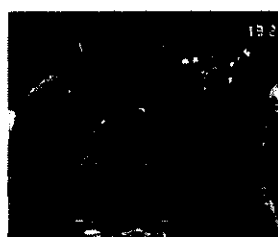

An Unexpected Visitor 3

"Okay," Linda said. "If you want to adopt an animal, we need to ask you some questions. Can you give us some references?" Robbie asked if that meant people he knew. "Yes," Linda said. She told him that she needed to talk to his friends, teachers, or neighbors about him. She wanted to make sure he was responsible, that he would take good care of the dog. She gave him a form to fill out about his family background. "Is that it?" Robbie asked. No, he was told. He needed to answer a series of questions about his history with animals. He was asked if he ever owned any animals, if he had any animals now, and what reasons he had for wanting an animal. He told her he used to have a cat. That was when he was eight years old. Unfortunately, he didn't have any animals now, though. He loved animals. He just wanted to hold and cuddle them. And besides, he added, a dog is a man's best friend.

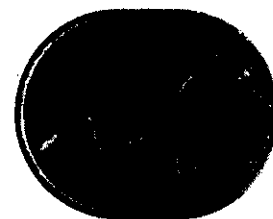

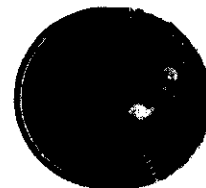

Linda thanked Robbie for answering all her questions and for bringing Gemma in. She assured Robbie he could claim her if the owners didn't call in the next 48 hours. Robbie thanked her for being so helpful. "It's my pleasure," said Linda. "Nice talking to you both."

Robbie and Alexandra went to a restaurant after leaving the shelter. They talked about how sad the dog's eyes looked. They thought she must really miss her owners. They were quiet for awhile while they ate and thought about the dog. Then Robbie suggested they finish eating and get back to the house. He wanted to show Alexandra his new tapes and sound system. "I was just going to do that," Robbie said, "when the dog barked and scratched on the front door."

When Robbie and Alexandra returned to Robbie's house, he put on some tapes. They were dancing when the phone rang. "Hello, Stewart residence," Robbie said. It was Linda from the shelter. She told Robbie that she had good news and bad news. The good news was that the Levinsons called and would be coming by to pick up their dog. The bad news was that Robbie wouldn't be able to adopt her. But Linda told Robbie that if he wanted another dog, he should drop by the shelter. She was sure Robbie could find another dog he would like. After he hung up, Robbie told Alexandra the news. He said he was disappointed he couldn't adopt Gemma but was happy that she had found her family. And he was looking forward to going to the shelter again and looking for another dog.

ACT I

In the Stewart's home. Robbie Stewart and his friend Alexandra Pappas are listening to music in the living room.

Alexandra : Robbie, this new Walkman is absolutely wonderful.

Robbie: Richard and Marilyn bought it for me for my birthday.

Alexandra : They're so thoughtful. You are very lucky, Robbie, to have such a nice family.

Robbie: Is something wrong, Alexandra?

Alexandra : No, nothing.

Robbie: Yes, there is. I can tell. What's the matter? Come on, you can tell me. What's up?

Alexandra : I don't know. Something's wrong.

Robbie: Ok, let's talk.

Alexandra : I received a letter from my parents this morning.

Robbie: Did they write some bad news?

Alexandra : No.

Robbie: Well, then why are you so sad?

Alexandra : I miss them. I miss them very much.

Robbie: I'm sorry, Alexandra. But I understand.

Alexandra : The Molinas treat me so nicely, and I love being with your family so much...but when I received the letter with photographs of my family, I cried. I cried because I miss them all.

Robbie: You really miss your family, don't you?

Alexandra : Yes, I know I must seem silly. It's not like I have nobody. I like the Molinas very much, and they're so kind to me.

Robbie: Hey, why don't we go out for a cheeseburger and french fries? That'll cheer you up. And you can use my Walkman.

Alexandra : That's a good idea. But if we go out, please don't complain about your math teacher or your math homework. I want to have fun.

Robbie: So do I, [He begins to turn off the lights.] I have to turn off the lights, or else my father will get really angry. He says I never turn them out when I leave. If they come home and they're on....[He moves his index finger across his throat to show that his father will be angry.]

Robbie: Do you hear something?

Alexandra : Yes, What was that?

Robbie: It sounded like a dog barking.

Alexandra : It sounded like a dog barking right here.

Robbie: Yeah, [He opens the door. A dog is standing there.]

Alexandra : A dog!

Robbie: A springer spaniel! [to the dog] Come on in! Make yourself at home.

Alexandra : Oh, you poor little thing. Come here.

Robbie: Come on.

Alexandra : Poor baby.

Robbie: Where did you come from?

Alexandra : [She looks at the dog's identification tag.] Her name's Gemma, and she belongs to Mr. and Mrs. Levinson. There's a phone number – five five five . . . eight four four eight. Robbie, maybe you should call them and tell the Levinsons we have their cute little spaniel.

Robbie: I've always wanted a springer spaniel. She's so cute. [He goes to the telephone and dials the Levinson's number.]

Operator : The number you are calling –555-8448- is no longer service.

Robbie: [He hangs up the phone.] The number's no longer in service.

Alexandra : [to the dog] Oh, you poor, poor baby. You've lost your family.

Robbie: We'll find them. Don't worry, Alexandra

ACT II

A little later. Robbie and Alexandra are in the kitchen. They are feeding the dog.

Robbie: Don't worry, Alexandra. We'll find the owner.

Alexandra: How, Robbie?

Robbie: Let me think.

Alexandra: [to the dog] Gemma, sit. Good Gemma. Give me your paw. Good Gemma. This dog is well trained.

Robbie: She likes you, too.

Alexandra: So how are we going to find the owners? With a little help from the ASPCA, the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. They're the ones. We once found a cat. She was caught in the branches of our tree. And Dad called the ASPCA. They came and solved the problem.

Alexandra: Robbie, let's call them.

[Robbie looks up the number in the telephone book.]

Robbie: Let me see -ASPCA. . . Here it is. ASPCA Animal Shelter. 555-7700. [He calls.]

Linda: Hello, ASPCA.

Robbie: Hello, my name is Robbie Stewart. I have a lost dog I'd like to bring to you.

How late are you open?

Linda: We're open till 9 p.m.

Robbie: Thank you. I'll bring the dog over by nine.

Linda: Thanks. Bye.

Robbie: Thanks. Good-bye. [He hangs up the phone.]

Alexandra: They're still open?

Robbie: They're open until nine O'clock. We have two and a half hours. Let's take Gemma by there now. They'll find the owner.

Alexandra: I hope so. I'm so sad to see this little dog without her family.

Robbie: I'm sure they'll find the owner. But if they don't, I'll adopt her. She's so cute. Look at those eyes. She's hard to resist. Don't you just love her?

Alexandra: I'd like to keep her, too. But I'll be going home to Greece at the end of the semester.

She just wants love and affection. Come on, Robbie. Let's get her to the animal shelter, so they can find her owners quickly. [to the dog] Don't worry, Gemma. We'll get you home. It's not easy being away from home.

Robbie: Come on, poochie. Atta girl! Let's go. We're off to the animal shelter.

At the ASPCA Animal Shelter. Robbie and Alexandra are in the office of the shelter's director, Linda Aborn.

Linda: [She writes on a form.] Your name?

Robbie: Robbie Stewart. And this is Alexandra Pappas.

Linda: Your name will do, Mr. Stewart. Your address?

Robbie: 46 Linden Street, Riverdale.

Linda: Where did you find the dog?

Alexandra: She found us.

Linda: You tried calling the number on the collar?

Robbie: Yes, but the number's no longer in service.

Linda: And there's no address on the dog tag?

Alexandra: There's no other information.

Linda: No ID number. Without that, it's hard.

Alexandra: You will try to find the dog's owner.

Linda: Oh, we'll try. Believe me.

Robbie: And if you don't?

Linda: Yes?

Robbie: If you don't . . . can I . . . can I adopt the dog?

Linda: Why, yes. If the owner don't claim! the dog in forty-eight hours, then you can apply for adoption.

Robbie: How do I do that?

Alexandra: You really want to?

Robbie: Yes, I'm serious. If no one comes to claim Gemma, I'd like to adopt her.

Linda: It's not difficult

END OF ACT II

ACT III

At the animal shelter later that day. Robbie and Alexandra are still talking with Linda Aborn.

Linda : OK. If you want to adopt an animal, first we need to know some references.

Robbie: References? People we know?

Linda : Friends, teachers. . . We need to talk to some people about you. We want to be sure that you're responsible and that you can take good care of animal. Then you have to fill out this form about your family background.

Robbie: Is that it?

Linda : No, there's more. We need to know about your history with animals. Have you ever owned an animal?

Robbie: Yes. We had a cat when I was eight years old. I love cats.

Linda : Do you have any animals now?

Robbie: Unfortunately, no.

Alexandra : Anything else?

Linda : We also like to know your reasons for wanting an animal.

Alexandra : Just to hold it and cuddle with it. Just to have as a pet. I love animals.

Robbie: To have a friend – a pal. You know, man's best friend is the dog.

Linda : And one thing more. If you're under twenty one years of age...

Robbie: That's me.

Linda : Then an adult must sign for you.

Alexandra : Uh-oh.

Robbie: No problem. My parents will think it's a good idea. I'll be back with them.

Alexandra : If the real owners don't come to claim Gemma...

Linda : After forty-eight hours. But please call first.

Robbie: Thanks for your information and for being so helpful.

Linda : It's my pleasure. Nice talking to both of you.

[They start to leave]

Robbie: Thanks again. Bye.

Alexandra : Maybe the real owners will come to claim her.

Robbie: Her eyes look so sad. She must really miss them.

Linda : I see you're both animals lovers.

Robbie: We are.

Alexandra: Good-bye, Miss Aborn. We'll call in a couple of days.

Linda : Good-bye, and thanks for bringing Gemma in.

Robbie: Bye

A little later at the restaurant. Robbie and Alexandra are eating.

Robbie: Hey, I wanted you to hear my new sound system when the dog scratched on the front door. Let's finish eating, and then we'll go back to my house. I want you to hear my new tapes. I've got some great new dance music.

In the Stewarts' home later that night. Robbie and Alexandra are dancing. The phone rings. Robbie answers it.

Robbie: Hello, Stewart residence.

Linda : Hello, Is Robbie Stewart there?

Robbie: This is he. Who's this?

Linda : This is Linda Aborn from the animal shelter.

Robbie: [to Alexandra] It's Linda from the animal shelter. Yes, Linda. Hi.

Linda : We have a good news and bad news, Robbie.

Robbie: Oh?

Linda : The good news is that the Levinsons have come by to pick up the dog. The bad news is, you won't be able to adopt the dog.

Robbie: That's OK.

Linda : Come by one day and look at some of the other dogs. I'm sure there's one for you. Thanks, Robbie. And the Levinsons thank you for bringing their dog to us.

Robbie: Thanks, Linda. Bye. [He hangs up.]

Alexandra : The owners claimed Gemma?

Robbie: That's right.

Alexandra : I'm glad for the dog.

Robbie: I guess I am, too. She said if I come by, she'll help me find another dog.

Alexandra : [She smiles.] Come on. Let's dance.
