ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

First and foremost, I praise the Lord who blessed me to be able to finish my studies. To His name be glory forever.

I also wish to give thanks to my professors and teachers at the Linguistics Department of Payap University for sharing their academic inspiration during my studies.

I am grateful to Dr. Larin Adams for undertaking the supervision of my thesis. I also would like to express my gratitude to my advisors, Ajarn Margie Doty and Dr. Phinnarat Akharawatthanakun, who helped me with detailed comments and suggestions on earlier drafts, and provided various insights from various discussions.

I would also like to thank the individuals and the families of SIL International for their support, their care, and their concern in times of need during my studies.

I also give a great thanks to the leaders of the Falam Christian Literature Society who strongly challenged and encouraged me to do Linguistics studies at Payap University.

I am deeply grateful to my language helpers for their great patience and willingness to subject their linguistic knowledge to my investigation and experimentation.

I would also like to dedicate a memorandum on this thesis for my late father, Than Cio, who was the foundation of my education along my journey of life. The prayers of my mother have also strongly encouraged me during my studies and were greatly appreciated.

Finally, I would like to mention my heartfelt appreciations to my beloved wife for her love, her prayers, and her strong encouragement for my studies. I praise her for her abilities in taking care all the needs of our family during my absence.
